

RESIDEO AIRCYCLE PROGRAM

Using data to empower a new conversation about whole-home comfort.

Let's talk.

The tools, tips and training you need to own IAQ with confidence.

Introducing a business growth program designed to transform the way you talk to customers about indoor air quality (IAQ). With the Resideo AirCycle program, you'll discover how to easily and effortlessly build IAQ into every conversation with every customer—offering solutions informed by data and backed by science.

IT'S NOT JUST ABOUT COMFORT. IT'S ALSO ABOUT CONTROL.

IAQ conversations can be tough, even for seasoned HVAC pros. Homeowners can feel temperature, but they can't as easily see, touch or feel poor air quality. Which makes it hard for them to justify the investment.

Unlike selling approaches that rely on speculative health diagnoses or scare tactics, the Resideo AirCycle program starts and ends with meaningful, measurable data that simplifies the conversation and enables homeowners to make informed decisions about their indoor environment.

At the heart of this program is the AirCycle Pro Monitor, a sophisticated diagnostic device that measures the 6 key IAQ indicators (carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, particles, relative humidity, odors and smells, and temperature) and generates a homeowner-friendly report that includes product recommendations—all in about 30 minutes. You and your team can learn how to use the monitor to change the IAQ conversation with our flexible in-person training options.
